JOHN MITCHELL SEEKS TO ESTABLISH CIVIC FEDERATION.

PRaises WISCONSIN PLAN

Says Badger State Has Most Practical Plan For General Compensation Act.

Madison, Wis., June 14.—Wisconsin has taken notable steps for workmen's relief, according to John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers of America, who with Ralph Easley of the National Civic Federation visited the governor today and arranged for a meeting later this afternoon to aid in the formation of a Wisconsin Union of the Civic Federation. "Wisconsin has a comprehensive and effective scheme of workmen's compensation," he said. "Considering the constitutional difficulties, perhaps the plan that the legislative committee is considering is the most practical for a general compensation act. I am much impressed with the thoroughness with which the committee has done its work. They have approached the subject with an earnest desire to solve the difficulties growing out of their liability systems. I think the difficulty about their scheme is that it takes from the workmen the right to say, but that no doubt will be satisfactorily adjusted in the end, if the scale of compensation is made high enough."

BOUNDARY DISPUTES MUST GO TO COURT

Settlement of Line Between Wisconsin and Minnesota Still Under Discussion.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., June 14.—Settlement of the disputed boundary between Wisconsin and Minnesota at Lake Pepin may become a matter for the United States supreme court to determine. Although in itself a matter of no large consequence, the question sooner or later must be settled, and the attorney general of Wisconsin expects that something will be done in the matter in the next six months or so.

This particular dispute is no dispute at all—that is, just now it is a matter between Wisconsin and Minnesota. Minnesota, as far as has not been asked to take part, but the cooperation of the governor state will be necessary before the present middle is ended.

It was the arrest for violation of the Wisconsin game laws that brought to the fore the old matter of the shifting channel of the Father of Waters, Lake Pepin is merely a "widespread" in the Mississippi, and the contention of the accused fishermen that he was in Minnesota when the alleged misdemeanor was committed brought the whole question of the real boundary forward. According to the principle already laid down by the United States supreme court, the boundary line (in a river) between two states is the center of the navigable channel. It was so decided in a bridge dispute between Iowa and Illinois, which gave the private bridge-owning corporations relief from double taxation on portions of the bridges between the two states. When Assistant Attorney General Thomas W. Washington recently secured a copy of this decision and that it is all that has been done so far by the attorney general's office toward settling the matter. However, the next step probably will be a recommendation to the legislature that that body take action to secure the appointment of a commission to represent both states, which commission shall agree on a boundary, after a proper survey shall have been made. Should the legislature fail to take such action, the attorney general of Minnesota will be asked to cooperate with the Wisconsin officials in a petition to the United States supreme court to fix the boundary and to appoint a commission to determine this boundary physically. It is believed here that this is the only manner in which the federal tribunal would consent to take jurisdiction in the matter.

WORLD'S MISSIONARY CONFERENCE OPENED

At Edinburgh With 1,000 Delegates Of Missionary Boards Alone In Attendance.

Edinburgh, June 14.—The third which the various Protestant denominations of all nations and countries are represented by delegates, opened here today with several thousand delegates and unofficial visitors in attendance. The United States and Canada with their fifty-eight missionary societies and boards are alone represented by about one thousand delegates. Great Britain has about an equal number, while the other European and other countries have a smaller representation in proportion to the extent of their missionary work.

The first of these World's Missionary Conferences was held in London in 1888. The second was held in New York in 1900. Since then mission work in all its branches has made tremendous progress, especially in the United States and Canada, and the reports to be submitted to the conference will make a surprising showing. The present conference, the most important of its kind ever held, is utterly official in its character, and its deliberations and actions will have a profound effect upon the religious work of the whole world. While all branches of Protestantism from the Ritualistic party in the Church of England to the Quaker meeting are represented in the gathering, no bias or opposition to the Roman Catholic Church will be allowed to enter into the deliberations of the conference.

The conference consists of two branches, the one composed of the regular delegates to meet at Assembly hall, the other, composed of those having some sort of official recognition, but not being regular delegates, which will hold its meetings at Synod Hall. The delegates were appointed by the various missionary boards on the basis of income devoted to missions in non-Christian lands. Women's Boards, having separate organizations were also permitted to send delegates.

The conference is a gathering of missionary experts and its chief business will be to hear and discuss reports of the eight commissions which have been appointed to investigate and report upon all phases of missionary work. Three commissions have been at work for several years studying the subjects entrusted to them and their reports will cover the whole of missionary work thoroughly and give a clear resume of the situation and of the possibilities and needs of the missionary field.

In addition to the reading of these reports and discussion thereon there will be addresses on missionary topics by the most eminent speakers of the world. The conference will not consider or adopt resolutions or vote even upon the reports of the commissions. Its sole aim is to gather and present through its commissions and proceedings, facts and conclusions of missionary experts on plans and methods of the missionary enterprise and thus "coordinate missionary experience from all parts of the world."

'TIS OLD GLORY'S 133RD BIRTHDAY

That's Why The Stars And Stripes Floated From Many Thousand Public Buildings This Morning

Washington, D. C., June 14.—The 133rd birthday of "Old Glory," the national emblem of the United States, was celebrated today throughout the country in the usual manner. It is safe to say that there was not a public building or school house throughout the land, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the Canadian line to the Gulf, which did not proudly display the Star and Stripes today, in patriotic recognition of the day. In many states the governors have issued proclamations for the appropriate observance of "Flag Day" and in thousands of schools special exercises were held to teach the children the story of the flag and what it represents.

The observance of the day in Washington was of a general character. Flags were displayed not only from all public buildings and nearly all business houses throughout the city, but also from many private residences and thousands of people were held in keeping with the occasion. In all public and private schools exercises were held and the various patriotic societies also held celebrations. Thousands of persons visited the National Museum to see the interesting collection of American flags preserved there.

The original flag, showing thirteen stripes and thirteen stars was adopted by the Continental Congress on June 14, 1777, with the provision that to each new state should be added one stripe and one star. This was changed however by the action of Congress in 1818, whereby it was ordered that the flag should show thirteen stripes for the original colonies and one star each for every one of the states composing the United States.

CITY DADS HOLD LIVELY SESSION

QUALITY OF STONE USED ON WASHINGTON ST. CAUSES RUCTION.

TRANSACTION MUCH BUSINESS

Many Public Improvements Ordered and Council Clears Slate of Routine Work.

Some animated remarks by Alderman Evans concerning the quality of stone used yesterday in the macadamizing of Washington street which resulted in explanations by the city engineer, the inspector and the superintendent of the stone crusher, the decision of the council to get together and view the Fourth avenue bridge in order to decide what to do with it, in addition to the authorizing of a number of public improvements, including the paving of a portion of Jackson street with asphalt macadam and the laying of sewers on Clarence street, were the main points of interest in the long regular session of the common council last night.

Prior to yesterday afternoon the quality of the stone being used for the bottom layer of the macadam pavement on Washington street, was up to specifications, which called for what is known as No. 1. Yesterday, however, the material suddenly deteriorated, and in response to Ald. Evans' "kick" it was learned that the stone had been a mixture of two grades, the coarse variety known as No. 1, and the smaller variety used for a second layer, known as No. 2. This mixture of the two grades had been ordered by the city engineer in the belief that it would make a good foundation, but after Ald. Evans had objected, Supt. Dulla was directed to use only No. 1 for the first layer, according to specifications, and Inspector Henry Blum was directed to reject all material not fully up to standard.

Following the recess, Mayor Carlo announced that he had closed the Fourth avenue bridge to traffic as it was unsafe and asked that the council take action regarding the disposition of the structure. Accordingly, Ald. Sheridan introduced a resolution which was carried, that the members of the council, the mayor and city engineer meet at the above named structure at four o'clock next Friday afternoon, inspect it and decide whether it should be repaired, replaced or closed for good.

Upon the recommendation of the chairman of the finance committee, the usual amount of bills were not ordered paid until a number including several for the purchase of supplies for the stone crusher and of repairs to the equipment of the fire and police departments were approved by the purchasing committee. Other expenditures authorized were the payment of $75 as authorized by law for the observance of Memorial Day, and $174.82 to Ed. Cochems and Nebel for work done in Sower Dist. No. 14, as specified in the report of the street assessment committee, which was accepted and placed on file.

Other reports accepted and placed on file included that of Supt. W. E. Dulla of the stone crusher for the two weeks ending June 11, the quarterly report of Fire Chief Klein, the city treasurer's report for the month of May, the municipal court report for the month of May, showing that $103.04 in fines had been collected, and the report of the board of education for the month of May, showing expenditures amounting to $5,190.76.

The bond of W. A. Crossman to run a second-hand store was also accepted and placed on file as was the contract and bond of the Gund, Graham Co. of Freeport to pave South Main street. A notice from the Janesville Electric company that they had surrendered their franchise was accepted and filed. As a result of a communication from Charles Snyder regarding the stench arising from puddles of water accumulating in the gutters on North River street, after every storm, the city engineer was ordered to build a temporary drain until the difficulty could be remedied permanently.

Comment contractors who allow materials to encumber the streets longer than twenty-four hours after the jobs have been completed will be prosecuted under the city ordinance regarding the blocking of gutters according to the provisions of a resolution introduced by Ald. Buchholz. Ald. Brown introduced the original resolution which called simply for notification but would not sponsor the prosecution part.

Numerous public improvements, ranging from street pavements and sewers to crosswalks were authorized as follows: The improvement of Jackson street from South Third to the north side of Oakland avenue, with asphalt macadam pavement; the laying of a sewer on Clarence street, from Court street to Milwaukee avenue; the opening of Champion street in Hamilton's addition to public travel, and the improvement by the laying of cement gutters and curbing of South Bluff street, from South Second street to Clark street; Oakland avenue from Wisconsin street to South Bluff street; Jefferson avenue, from Tupper avenue to Oakland avenue; the repaving of Liberty street, from Sharon street southeast to the city limits under the direction of the alderman of the third ward, and the repaving of the park gardens under the direction of the park commissioner at an expense not to exceed $100.

Standard brick crosswalks were ordered laid across Pleasant street on the west side of Chatham street; across Pleasant street, on the west side of Pine street; across the alley on the north side of Ravine street, between South Bluff street and Division street; across Jefferson avenue on the south side of South Third street; across Augusta street on the south side of Glen street; across East street on the south side of St. Lawrence avenue; across Eastern avenue on the west side of McKee Blvd.; across Cherry street, on the north side of Calumet street; and across S. Franklin street, on the north side of Union street.

Owners of the following described real estate were ordered to build standard sidewalks in front of their premises: That part of lot 10, Mitchell's addition, bounded on the north by Wall street, east by Madison street, and on the south by Canary's and railway's lands, on Wall street; lot 30, Dickson and Bailey's addition, on the west side of South Bluff street, between Oakland avenue and South Third street; the west one-half of the north eight rods of lot 3, block 14, original plat; south three rods of lot 3 and north five rods of lot 4, block 14, original plat, all on the east side of Wisconsin street; lots 8, 9, 10, Carrington, Wheeler and Winter, all on the north side of Wisconsin street; lots 18, 20, and 21, all on the south side of Wisconsin street; the south fifty feet of lot 13, Winslow's subdivision of block 29, original plat, on the west side of Division street, between Oakland avenue and South Third street, and lot 8, Winslow's subdivision, block 29, original plat, and part of lots "L" and "D" in Forest Park addition.

The pop corn stand question again bobbed up during the latter part of the meeting when D. W. Boohar's petition was laid on the table and the stand erected on the sidewalk on the north side of the Kent block, corner of South Main and Court streets, was ordered removed, and the offending party prosecuted for violation of city ordinance, in accordance with an order introduced by Ald. Sheridan, the city clerk was instructed to purchase a carload of paving brick from the Indiana Paving Brick company.

In his quarterly report, Chief Klein of the fire department stated that since the first of the year, the department had responded to 37 alarms, 27 of which have been "still" or telephone alarms; that all of the horses, with the exception of the veteran "Duck" were in good condition, and that about 250 feet of the 500 feet of hose purchased four years ago, which was guaranteed for six years, has shown defects and will probably be replaced according to the guarantee. The report also stated that the fire well located in Milwaukee's addition was inadequate.

A Fish Tale

Apparently the cat's blue lives are no longer in it with the hardihood of that much-despised fish, recently declared by Wisconsin politicians, not only to be edible, but tasty, the German carp, S. C. Wager of Broadhead, a park-tender there, tells a story of this member of the finny species, that has all the requisites of a good fish story. According to his tale, a party of his friends were fishing up the river, about five miles from Broadhead, recently, and among the first of their catches was a carp "about two feet long" which they threw into the wagon box and left lay there in the hot sun nearly all day. When the party drove home they left it in the wagon for about an hour after doing their horses and only thought to remove it when Mr. Wager came that way, offering it to him to feed to the cows in the park. He accepted the gift and started to take it away, when he noticed one of the girls moving and suggested taking the fish to the pond to see if it would revive. It was placed in the water and lay there several hours, finally gaining sufficient strength to wiggle a bit. Later it had fully recovered and is now swimming about the pond as deftly as if nothing had ever occurred.

WILL HAVE TO MAKE CHANGES IN SYSTEM

Pounding in Water Mains and Service Pipes at Clinton Necessitates Improvements.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Clinton, June 14.—To enlarge the pumping capacity of the village water works, the village board some six or eight months ago installed a new and improved double-acting pump which, while it did provide more water, caused so much thumping and pounding in the water mains and service pipes in residences as to be very annoying and almost unbearable. To remedy the trouble the board has determined to put in a receding column or siphon tank into which the water will be pumped first and then re-pumped into the mains, thence into the tank on the hill. The expense will be about $1,400, with good prospects of being double that amount. A new and much larger well could be sunk for the money and it would not be necessary to pump so many hours a day, and thus reduce the expense, while the present contemplated change will add to the pumping expense for all time to come.

Bird's Nest in Gas Lamp. A blackbird has selected a strange position for nesting at Winchester. On the bridge spanning the Great Western railway station is an incandescent gas lamp, the by-pass of which is always alight.

The bird has built its nest inside the lamp and has laid five eggs, and it may be seen going and coming from the nest with the utmost unconcern. The light is turned on at dusk every night and large numbers of people are continually passing the spot.—London Daily Mail.

Degrees of Quarrel. I will name you the degrees. The first, the retort courteous; the second, the quip modest; the third, the reply churlish; the fourth, the reproof valiant; the fifth, the countercheck quarrelsome; the sixth, the lie with circumlocution; the seventh, the lie direct; all these you may avoid but the lie direct, and you may avoid that, too, with an if.—Shakespeare, "As You Like It."

Family Greetings

BEFORE the days of the Bell Telephone, distance made family visits infrequent, costly, and, often, impossible.

Today, members of a family can visit by telephone and keep in constant touch with one another, regardless of distance, by this connecting link.

Telephone service is always available wherever the Bell system reaches. That means that 20,000,000 people can communicate by Bell Telephone any hour of the day or night.

Left It to the Boys. Cheering for ancient Greeks, who never had bald heads, or ought never to have had them, the boy students of Ohio Wesleyan university at Delaware made a bonfire of their hats the other night. Dancing around the fire they swore never to imperil the hair of their heads again. The girl students applauded the proceedings from a safe distance, but refused to join in the sacrifice. Burn their new spring hats? Well, hardly.

Stephenson Has No Enemies. "Uncle Ike" Stephenson of Wisconsin, is a senator without enemies, and it is not likely that he will have any if he remains in congress all the rest of his life, for he is not a man to stir up trouble. He has a sharp political opponent in Senator La Follette, although they were close friends only a few years ago. "Uncle Ike" is in the senate quite frequently, and he goes from one senator to another and has a bit of conversation and a good pass on.

TRUE TO MASTER'S TEACHING

Generous Deed of Dr. Marcus Whitman, Missionary Physician of the Pacific Coast.

For some time there can be no adequate payment in money, Dr. Marcus Whitman, the missionary physician of the Pacific coast, knew that very well, says his biographer, Rev. Myron Wells. Once on the Wallawalla river a poor, sick immigrant, weak from eating "blue mums," was taken to see the doctor. The story is best told in his own words.

"Mother Whitman came and raised the wagon cover and said: 'What is the matter with you, my brother?' 'I am sick, and I don't want to be pestered much, either.' 'Hub, hub, my young friend, my husband is a doctor, and can probably cure your ailment. I'll go and call him.'"

So off she clattered, and pretty soon Dr. came, and they packed me in the cabin, and soon he had me on my feet again.

I eat up a whole band of cattle for him, as I had to winter with him. I told him I'd like to work for him to kinder pay part of my bill.

Well, Doc set me to making rails, but I only made 200 before spring, and I got to worrying 'cause I had only $50 and a saddle horse, and I reckoned I owed the doctor $400 or $500 for my life.

Now, maybe I wasn't knocked out when I went and told the doctor I wanted to go on to Wolfcut, and asked him how we stood; and doctor puffed to a cayuse pony, and says: 'Money I have not, but you can take that horse and call it even, if you will.'—Youth's Companion.

The Optimist's Corner

Daily Helps to Health and Happiness

By GEORGE F. BUTLER, A. M., M. D.

The human body may be compared to a pond with a surrounding bank. This bank is not uniform in strength. When for any reason the pressure of the contained waters is increased, the bank will give way in its weakest part. Just so in the case of the body. When the stomach sends out an amount of impure material too great to be borne, that part of the system which is weakest will give way. There are many men who from abuse of the stomach are the victims of headache, of muscular rheumatism, of gout, of low spirits, and many other ailments. There is no man with brain so happily constituted that indigestion will not cast a dark shadow over him. If all high livers, among whom there are red noses, inflamed eyes, sore throats and feet, headache, rheumatism, bad stomach, torpid liver, stiff back, low spirits, etc., were to change their table habits and live on the right quantity of the best food, eaten at the right time and in the right manner, they would be restored to health. It isn't so much the kind of food as the quantity eaten that does the harm. The average man can quadruple his force and enjoyment by a thoughtful management of his food.

EASY TO ACQUIRE WEALTH

Any One Can Lay Up Treasures on Earth if He Is Willing to Pay the Price.

An old confidential clerk in a New York banking house has just died, leaving an estate of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000, all saved out of his wages and acquired by investment. Far from being a difficult feat, this is rather easy. Any bright boy who fancies such a career can repeat it.

Suppose an office boy of sixteen has in two years saved by pinching self-denial $100. He can loan it at legal interest on good personal security or invest it to yield five per cent. In the former case, if the yield is kept reinvested it will grow to $3,200 by the time he is seventy-five; in the latter case to $2,100.

But the boy keeps on saving. His wages are raised from time to time, and as his second, third and succeeding $100 come more quickly, each in turn is set on its way to grow into thousands. At thirty-five he has a salary of perhaps $2,500 a year and saves $1,800 of it or more. The savings of that single year, kept invested at legal interest, will grow to $20,000 in 40 years. But already he has many other dollars at work for him—or rather for his unloving heirs. As his salary grows he saves and invests more, and still more. Probably he will see frequent changes of profitable money. But he will never take a risk. He is a faithful and trustworthy though not brilliant employee. He does not become dissipated or gluttonous, and so has no use for doctors. His employers appreciate him and he holds their appreciation into more living, growing gold.

Of course he never marries. He spends nothing on enjoyment or self-amusement or travel. In the end he dies a lonely death, and from the famous will case that follows the lawyers profit mightily.

There are probably a few boys in New York today who will do this very thing. It is in them to do it. But is it worth while?

Coy.

The following advertisement recently appeared: "Being aware that it is indelicate to advertise for a husband, I refrain from doing so; but if any gentleman who is inclined to advertise for a wife I will never the advertisement without delay. I am young, am domestic and am considered ladylike. Apply," etc.

CHILD'S LIFE SAVED BY CAT

Sleeping With Infant, Pet Received Death Thrust Delivered by Insane Father.

In the St. Germain quarter of Paris a little French child owes its small life to the liking of the family cat for the little one's warm, soft bed. Owing to the animal's presence there beneath the blankets what would have been a ghastly tragedy became almost farcical.

The child's father, once a prosperous merchant, had come down through speculation, and by constant brooding over his reverses became insane. He imagined that Beelzebub had promised to direct him to a spot where hidden treasure was concealed, providing the blood of a child was offered to him. Accordingly one night recently Grondard, the person in question, rose from his bed and with a knife in his hand went towards his child's cradle.

The poor mother, struck dumb by horror, sprang out to stop him, but the maniac was too quick for her. Flushing about in his frenzy, and averting his face, he stabbed twice at the sleeping child before the frantic mother could intervene, and, mad with distress, snatch her little one from the crumpling bed clothes. Her joy was unutterable to find her baby unscathed. The child had been saved at the expense of its trespassing pet, which had received both thrusts.

MADE A "HIT" OF ACCIDENT

Sicilian Actor Certainly Gifted With True Dramatic Instinct, as This Incident Shows.

Giovanni Grasso, a Sicilian actor of unusual dramatic energy, is the hero of a peculiar story, says the Florence correspondent of the London Express. He was playing one of his fiercest parts, where he had to stab his enemy with a dagger. Suddenly, in the heat of his passion, Grasso let the weapon slip out of hand. It alighted in the pit on a man's head, cutting it slightly.

An indignant member of the audience flung the knife back to the stage, where it was dexterously caught by Grasso. Raising it aloft in his hand, and as if it were accursed, Grasso smashed it in two, and then stamped upon it.

Then, with a swift bound, Grasso was in the pit beside the injured man. The next minute he had climbed back to the boards, with the victim in his arms.

After settling him in a chair, Grasso threw himself on his knees and began a long entreaty for forgiveness. This was readily granted by the much embarrassed playgoer, who on his side begged to be allowed to return to his seat.

But this was not to be until Grasso, weeping copiously, had bestowed no fewer than 50 reconditing kisses on the man's blushing cheeks.

The action was greeted with loud cheers, and after Grasso had gracefully bowed his thanks, the play was resumed and successfully concluded.

WHERE THE RAILROADS STAND.

"From the exalted financial sources, an official view of the railroad position has been handed down, and it is worth stating even if we do not accept it," says the Wall Street Journal.

"This is that the recent agreement between the administration and the railroad presidents resulted in establishing conditions of harmony, which include also the protesting shippers. It is claimed, moreover, that an absolute minimum for railroad rates was thereby virtually established, and that any future changes would necessarily be upward."

"It must be confessed that all this is not obvious, and some of it is not true. Reduced to the bare statement of fact, what can be said is that the railroads received August permission not to advance their rates. Those rates will be advanced if such advances are just and reasonable, and on that point the courts have decided that the interstate commerce commission is the constitutionally appointed authority. There is no reason to believe that rates at present ruling constitute an irreducible minimum. But if they do, the country will be the poorer thereby."

"What has hitherto been avoided in the railroad business of this country is that rigidity which has paralyzed railroad development elsewhere. England is by no means the worst example of this fact, but a maximum rate is fixed by act of parliament. The railroads have power to reduce that rate, but they cannot restore it to the old figure without the permission of the board of trade. This takes the question into politics, and the universal experience has been that politics and railroad administration are best kept apart."

"One result of the system in England is that the railroads can do little to encourage industrial and agricultural development. Within thirty miles of London for instance, profitable truck farming might be introduced if the railroads could be induced to make rates to suit. The congestion of population in London would be relieved; and the unimpaired condition of that great city being supplied with fruit and vegetables from the south of France and the Sicily islands by sea, while the pleasant counties of Kent and Sussex are turned to less profitable uses, is presented."

"The English railways are not unwilling, but the first reduction must necessarily be an experiment, and if that experiment fails, they are practically without remedy. The subject is a most extensive one, and it is not pretended here to present more than one small aspect of the matter. Government regulation is on trial everywhere, and so far it can hardly be said to have entirely justified itself."

England, with its limited territory and dense population, had its growth and development, to large extent, before the days of railroads. In other words the railroad has not entered into the problem as a prominent factor."

The arbitrary regulation of an old empire, may be all right, and government ownership is frequently a part of the program, but conditions under a republican form of government are entirely different, and the United States is suffering today through attempts to copy and adopt the old world systems."

Students of political economy become infatuated with theories, and writers exploit their notions before a restless constituency, regardless of the fact that they are impractical."

The railroads are incidental to the old world, while they are the leading factor in development of the new. The 228,000 miles of track, stretching out to all parts of the country, was much of it laid across the broad prairies, and through the mountains and deserts, in advance of civilization. This great railway system was wrought out by private capital, invested by men who possessed sublime faith in the future of the country. Had government ownership prevailed, the mileage would be reduced 75 per cent, and much of the land would still be a wilderness."

During these years of rapid development, the government has pursued a liberal policy by granting land subsidies, but the money has been returned many fold. Regulation of course is demanded, but confiscation should not be tolerated however popular the clamor may be."

A TURN FOR THE BETTER.

The New York Evening Post thus views the situation in the light of events which have recently transpired in Iowa and Wisconsin.

"Without attempting to pronounce upon the question with any air of judicial finality, we are bound to take note, with all fair-minded observers, of a turn for the better in the outlook for the administration. The President is plainly in a much stronger position than it appeared possible a few weeks ago that he could be by this time have attained. His railway stroke has unquestionably won him new popularity in the west. The stop now may not have been taken for political effect, but the political effect has undoubtedly followed."

"Moreover, those who look at the whole transaction in no partisan spirit, cannot fail to be gratified that the President has succeeded in putting the entire controversy about increased railroad charges in the way of orderly and fair determination. With congress, too, his position is much strengthened. He now bids fair to close the session with a longer list of his recommendations enacted into law than Roosevelt was able to show in the last two years of his term—though that sounds like talking in superlatives."

"And in the actual expression by voters in Iowa, the administration has fared better than most prophets believed possible. Senator Cummins returns to Washington with far fewer sculps in his belt than he boasted that he would be able to display. On top of this confessed disappointment of the insurgents, comes the rally of Taft's supporters in Wisconsin, whose almost avowed aim is to drive La Follette from the senate. It is not strange that the champions of the administration are in better heart."

"The enforcement of law, which has to do with moral questions, depends upon public sentiment. Who would enforce a local option law in Janesville when such a law is opposed by more than two-thirds of the voters. The saloon with some semblance of regulation is better than the saloon in open defiance of laws. The experience of other cities similarly situated is an object lesson. The American saloon is bad, enough, but the American dive is worse."

If you was speaker of the house what would you have done with the 30,000 bills presented at this session? You would have referred them to committees where they belonged and thus have the most of them buried decently and in order. That's exactly what "Uncle Joe" Cannon did, and that's Cannonism, with all the frills cut out."

A Janesville man who happened to be in the house of representatives the other day, when a division of the house was called for, said it looked odd to see the representatives of the First district line up with the democrats. Queer, wasn't it?

The discussion of whether or not the government shall supply gasoline for its automobiles, used by officials, is on a par with refusing to advance money for the President's traveling expenses. Congress is a wealthy organization but some of its deliberations belong to the schoolboy class."

The wild and woolly state of Oklahoma is up in the air over the new location of the capitol. The city of Guthrie proposes to retain it, while Oklahoma City is putting up a desperate fight to steal the prize. The governor has already been captured and the fight goes on."

The issue of loyalty to Taft and the national administration, is the important issue of the state and national campaign. The strength of insurgency is to be tested and the outcome will be significant."

Mr. Connor, chairman of the republican campaign committee, has opened headquarters at the Plankinton House, Milwaukee, and a vigorous campaign is proclaimed."

Senator Dolliver of Iowa has received himself of a good deal of bile, and ought to feel better. The fact has just dawned upon him that he and Cummins are not the whole thing in Iowa."

The Milwaukee Journal is engaged in a series of spasms for revenue only."

The viewpoint from Wisconsin and South America presents a different aspect, as evidenced by the flop of the Oshkosh Northwestern."

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

TO THE HOUSEWIFE.

"I just want to finish this seam."

And you went on, bending your back over your work and straining your eyes in the uncertain light, because you felt the job must be done."

You did not notice the eye strain at the time. The full payment came later when the oculist put glasses on you, and that when you were a comparatively young woman."

Nature honors few overdrifts on her account. You must pay."

One day you were cleaning house or doing some other big task, and you did not feel so very tired, so you kept on, exhausting the last resource of your vitality, until you were forced to go to bed with a raging headache."

You overdid the account—and paid for it."

And your defence—I am a married man—is that the thing must be done and there is only you to do it, and it takes determination and perseverance to accomplish anything."

You are right. But—

Do you stop to think that it takes as much or more determination and strength of mind to lay down a piece of work undisturbed and before you have exhausted yourself?

The wise woman does that."

She knows just about how much vitality she has. She knows when to stop. She knows that if she keeps on she must pay the penalty."

Learn how to relax."

It matters not what may be your task. You may be in the midst of the annual cleanup. Every curtain in the house is down. The rugs are out on the grass. The music boxes are piled up on the kitchen range. Every chair is full. The pictures have been dumped on the couch. It matters not. Stop and rest!

Lie down for a few moments. Grant the tired muscles and nerves a little mercy. Relax. Rest a little—though the heavens fall."

If you do not you will pay later on. When your man comes home at night you will be frayed out and grumpy and grouchy, and—your man—"

And if you keep up that gait without rest or relaxation you will be an old woman before your time. And you will lose the delicious flavor of life and all the springtime of happiness."

You are a helpmeet and a woman; you are not a slave."

Learn how to use yourself without abusing yourself. Spend yourself to the best advantage. Stop always this side of exhaustion. You will be thereby a happier wife and mother. And—

Gather ye rosebuds while ye may. Old time is still a-flying. And the same flowers that smile today Tomorrow will be a-dying."

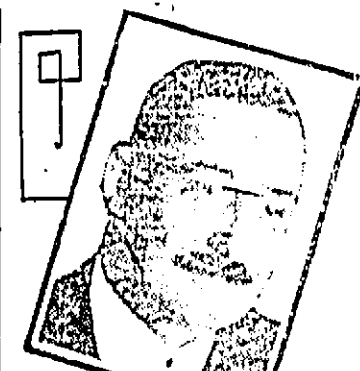

About the Only Thing Left.

"My present patient," said the pretty nurse, "is very exacting. 'Wants something all the time.' 'Never mind. He may ask you to marry him.' 'I wouldn't be surprised if he did. He has about run out of other requests.'"

Uncle Eben's Wisdom.

"It's a lucky thing for old human race," said Uncle Eben, "that the Ten Commandments wasn't loaded down with phrasology like do laws do legislative passes."

San Francisco—Chaos terms the situation in Johnson's camp as regards the managerial place."

George Little is certainly out, but may come in for a share of the profits of the big fight, through court action. Billy Nolan appears to have been manager for about 24 hours, but according to Johnson's latest statement, he too, is out. Johnson says he will manage the affair himself, but this does not meet with the approval of his followers, so who next?

GOVERNMENT ASKS FOR INFORMATION

Engineer Visits Janesville to Secure Data on Making Rock River Navigable.

That the national government has not forgotten the long neglected project of deepening the Rock river from Sterling, Ill., to this city for freight traffic is shown by the visit yesterday of Major Charles Keller of the corps of U. S. Engineers whose office is in Chicago.

According to Andrew J. Gibbons, vice-president and secretary of the Janesville Furniture Company, who was delegated by the directors of the Industrial and Commercial Club to aid Major Keller in his investigations, the government official is making a tour of the various cities that will be affected should the work be carried out and is also sounding the sentiment of the people and manufacturers with regard to the undertaking. It is the desire of the officials to ascertain what industries will be benefited by the proposed work. In order to settle this question, a detailed statement of the amount of the incoming and outgoing freight is desired from each city along the route and also any other information bearing on the project.

To further the plans of the United States Engineers and to aid them in the work, the Industrial and Commercial Club has made arrangements to collect the desired information and to submit it to the federal officials. This report is now in being prepared and will be made public when completed and after a copy has been forwarded to the engineering headquarters.

Good Advice.

Since thou art not sure of a minute, do not throw away an hour.—Franklin.

Strange Foods.

The Indians of this country were not afraid to eat grasshoppers, and the desert Hebrew tribes of Palestine thought locusts a dainty dish. In the West Indies the negroes eat freely of the big grub found in palm trees. The fat, white morsel, which they call "grugru," is not cooked or salted. The aborigines of Australia live almost entirely on a butterfly known as the bugong.

GRANDPA SCATTERGOOD.

The Ticklemouse

—and his Sleepyland Adventures
By Roy Rutherford Bailey with Davy and Dorfy

The Rocking Broncho

"O'er prairie green and fair
We're galloping, galloping on!
As free, as free as air—Wang Willy Whinnymouse, holding to his uncle's coat collar as the rocking horse—tickled now into life—began prancing about the nursery.

"Guess you'd better wish them awake, Willy—this critter's getting hard to hold," Willy winked and wished, and helped the sleepy twins to mount.
"Whoa, there, Rarus—don't go so fast; you scare us!" he chuckled. For the rocking-horse was now a full sized broncho, and took the open window at a bound. "Turn his head to the west, Uncle Tick!"

"Trust him for that! After a bucking broncho has been turned to wood for a year or two, he's always glad enough to get back to the plains. Hold tight!"

The excited horse was tearing along at a mile-a-minute clip, faster and faster as he snuffed the prairie breeze. At last they reached a rough, mountainous country dotted here and there with mighty forests of pine and spruce. The Mouse brought the broncho to a stop and hopped him with a piece of rope among the tall, sweet mountain grasses.
"Get your fly book out," he cried to Willy. "Try a Professor or a Silver Doctor for a starter."

"No," laughed Willy to the twins as they watched the Mouse cut four slender willow rods at the water's edge.
"No, this isn't a night school—the Professor is just a trout fly; so's the Doctor. One of our neighbors laughed at Uncle Tick today for saying mountain trout would take a fly at midnight, and he's bound to prove they will!"

The trout stream was a foaming, sizzling ribbon of white water that tore along between shadowy banks, gleaming cheerfully in the darkness. "Guess

For something flashed clear of the pool and struck his fly in midair. "Don't tell me they can't see in the dark—I can't see well enough to play him, but I can derick him out!" And the Mouse landed the beautiful, struggling, painted creature on the grassy bank.

"Come on, Willy—Dorfy—I've got one!" He showed the others his prize, and Willy promptly cast a silver spinner into the inky shadows of the pool.

"Hear that? Clunked against the rocks—can't tell whether it's in the water or on a boulder," he whispered to his companions.

"The trout can, though!" shouted his uncle, as Willy's rod doubled at the strike of the second fish. "Here, throw in, Chillions, and I'll show you fishing that is fishing!"

"We ought to have worn spurs," grumbled Willy, an hour later, as they galloped homeward. "This lazy cayuse goes just about half as fast as he did coming out. What's the matter with the brute?"

"He's probably undecided whether to go back to the nursery and be turned into a wooden rocking-horse again, or buck us off and stay on the plains," his uncle told him. "And I can't much blame him—just smell that pine breeze!"

Like as not if we'd give him his head he'd gallop straight back and try a little trout fishing on his own hook!"

"Come up here a minute," called the Mouse, tonight's black enough for a fair test," said Willy, snapping his line at the stream like a coachman's lash.
"But can they really see a little fly on a night like this?" asked Dorfy.

Toy Spaniel an Old Breed.
The English toy spaniel is doubt-edly one of the oldest and most popular breeds of pet dogs known. As far back as the days of Charles the Martyr, this breed was much prized by the ladies of the court. In the narrative of the execution of Mary, Queen of Scots, indorsed in Lord Burghley's hand and forwarded to the court, it was recorded that one of the executioners found her little pet, a spaniel of practically the same type as those afterward known in the reign of Charles II., which had crept under the folds of her garments to be near her, and which would not be taken away.

CARES FORGOTTEN IN SLEEP

When Beneficent Nature Allows Unfortunate Humanity a Brief Respite.

I saw once how like sleep was to life in the deep waters. A man who to my waking eyes looked cold and starved and ragged sat upon one of the benches on the embankment. He was sleeping, and I knew from his face that then at least he did not count himself miserable.

But presently a policeman came and shook the sleeper into waking life.
Then all the violence of the world seemed to be let loose upon this wreck of a man. He shook and blinked his eyes and breathed with heavy sneezes. It was just as when a fish is caught out of the depth of the sea and suddenly cast into the basket. I have seen mackerels shake and gasp like this poor man suddenly caught up out of the native depths of sleep.
Or if you think that a fish thus dying is only an amusing and not a painful sight, then think of what it might be if some giant of fable could catch us up out of our native air into the space between the stars.

Would we not willingly sink back again into the depth of sleep? So it is when the loud world lets us glide down into sleep.—London Outlook.

Autos equipped with wireless in Gilded tour.
Telegraphing from moving automobile, Dr. DeForest, who made first successful test. Receiving first message sent from moving automobile.

Chalmers—As the contestants for the seventh annual Gilded tour gal-ler for their 3,000-mile grind over 12 states, one new innovation for the 1910 trip is attracting unusual attention. It is the equipment of some of the automobiles with wireless apparatus, which will add much to the safety and enjoyment of the run. Since Dr. DeForest announced his sparkless wireless system, just a year ago, the possibility of an automobile keeping in constant touch with central stations has been a certainty.

The Chalmers Automobile company has been quietly carrying on, in New York and New Jersey, exhaustive tests of the new DeForest "sparkless" wireless apparatus with uniform success.

These tests have included both the wireless telegraph and wireless telephone, and while it is planned to eventually supersede the wireless telegraph with the wireless telephone, doing away with the necessity of employing an operator, every chauffeur carrying an operator, every chauffeur by speaking into the transmitter, the wireless telephone tests have not yet been sufficiently exhaustive to guarantee its use during the next tour, although very satisfactory results have been obtained in communication from a moving car a distance of four miles.

The Chalmers company is still carrying on these tests.

In the early part of March, successful "radio" telegraph tests were made between a Chalmers car in Central park, New York, and the old Terminal building at Park avenue and Forty-second street, where Dr. De-Forest maintains his experimental laboratory. The distance involved varied from one and one-half to three miles in the trial from a moving car, while the experiments with the portable field stations showed that this type of apparatus at least would be able to carry on certain communication up to 50 miles, as the field station was able to keep in communication without any trouble with the Metropolitan and Manhattan Life towers and Dr. DeForest's factory station at Sewark, N. J., and later on from the New Jersey highways near Trenton to the "sparkless" wireless station on the Land Title building at Philadelphia, over 30 miles away. The complete equipment weighed less than 200 pounds and was similar in design to those used at the Metropolitan and Manhattan Life stations, only considerably smaller.

By the old spark method of wireless telegraphy, which is in general use on the ships, a miniature thunder storm is set in motion by the apparatus which requires tremendous power. By the new sparkless system

CHARLTON SLAYER, IS CHARGE.

Arrest of Husband of Lake Como Victim Asked For.

Como, Italy, June 14.—"Announce that we want Porter Charlton arrested on a charge of wife murder and that he doubtless will land in New York."

So said Count Guglielmo, procurator of the king, after an exhaustive investigation of the evidence so far discovered touching the crime by which Mrs. Mary Scott Castle Charlton was beaten to death in her villa and her body thrust alive into a trunk, which was weighted with a large stone and dropped into the waters of Lake Como, from which it was recovered last Friday.

Count Guglielmo's positive statement was made in the face of developments which convinced many that young Charlton was also a victim of the murderer who took the life of his bride, and that his body, like hers, was hidden in the waters of the Lake of Como.

A portion of a man's coat was dragged to the surface from the bottom of the lake, and fishermen living near the villa which was occupied by the Charltons positively identified it as a part of a garment belonging to the young husband.

The finding of the coat, in the opinion of many, strengthens the theory advanced by Charles M. Coughy, the American consul at Milan, that a double murder was committed, and that young Charlton's body will yet be found at the bottom of the lake.

SUES TO ENJOIN STOCK YARDS.

Government Would Prevent Company Engaging in Interstate Commerce.

Chicago, June 14.—The important question which it is hoped will be settled by the government's suit against the Union Stock Yards and Transit company and others, charging the granting of rebates to a shipper, is whether concerns like the Union Stock yards, operating railroads wholly within the state, but in connection with lines doing an interstate business, are subject to regulation by the interstate commerce commission.

The bill, which seeks an injunction to prevent the paying of a rebate, declares in effect that the switching railways at the stock yards, while in their individual extent merely local affairs, are really, by agreement with interstate roads, doing an interstate business.

BUTTER AND EGG BOARD SUE.

Federal Government Asks Injunction to Prevent Fixing of Prices.

Chicago, June 14.—A suit, charging violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, was filed against the Chicago butter and egg board, its officers and directors, in the United States circuit court by the government. An injunction enjoining the board from fixing the prices of butter and eggs and the dissolution of the board is asked.

In Memory of Dr. Harper.

Chicago, June 14.—In the presence of many distinguished educators and other citizens, the cornerstone of the Harper Memorial library at the University of Chicago was laid today. The handsome building to be erected will be a monument to the late president of the university.

Blain in a Foul.

Lexington, Ky., June 14.—In a feud battle in Breathitt county two members of the Crawford family were shot to death and a member of the Johnson family fatally wounded.

The Art League will have a picnic at Mrs. Burr's cottage, up the river, on Wednesday. Boat leaves at 10:00 a. m. Don't forget your dishes.

ROOSEVELT PREACHES AT SEA.

Delivers Sermon Through Interpreter to 1,200 Polish Emigrants.

Abroad S. S. Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, Mid-Atlantic, Via Crook Haven, Ireland, June 14 (Special wireless message).—Three days of quiet aboard ship have sharpened Mr. Roosevelt's appetite for the welcome he knows is awaiting him in New York. In anticipating that he takes keener delight than he ever took in standing upon the thresholds of kings.

The first active interest he has shown in ship life was when he attended a religious service (Catholic) in the storeroom for the 1,200 Polish emigrants there. After mass was said Mr. Roosevelt, standing beside an American altar, draped with an American flag, preached a sermonette through an interpreter. He gave them all advice about what to do on land, specially warning the women to beware of the "white slave" peril, advising them to stick close to their men folk.

When he finished speaking and his last words had been interpreted, a woman seized his hand and kissed it repeatedly.

Thereupon the hundreds of other women rushed toward him, many weeping. With some difficulty he was rescued from this emotional feminine avalanche by the commander of the steamship, Captain Husor, and some petty officers.

BREAKS WORLD HEIGHT RECORD.

Walter T. Brookings Gains an Altitude of 4,384 Feet.

Indianapolis, June 14.—Walter S. Brookings, star of the Wright team of birdmen, broke the world's record for altitude in aeroplanes at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. He not only broke the record for altitude, but the time record in making it and the time record for descent after reaching the highest point. The Wright brothers were overjoyed at the remarkable performance in their 30 horsepower, 4-cylinder biplane, Brookings' height was 4,384 feet in 24 minutes from the time of starting. The previous record was 4,167 feet, made by Paulhan at Los Angeles.

WRITES LETTER; IS LYNCHED.

Missive to White Woman Leads to Death of Mississippi Negro.

Como, Miss., June 14.—While officers from Arkansas were on route to Mastodon, Miss., with Elmer Carl, a negro, they were overpowered by a mob near here, who took the negro to Mastodon and lynched him. Carl was charged with shooting W. P. Miller, a plantation manager, who attempted to arrest him for writing an improper letter to a white woman.

PAN-PROTESTANT MISSION MEET.

Great Conclave of Workers Assemble at Edinburgh, Scotland.

Edinburgh, Scotland, June 14.—The biggest international religious meeting of the year, the Protestant World's Missionary conference, opened here today with every nation on the globe represented. The United States and Canada have sent more than a thousand delegates. All sessions of the conference proper are to be held in Assembly hall, which seats 2,000. Synod hall, with like capacity, is set aside for meetings of representative workers at the home base selected by the missionary boards. Evening meetings will be held in a third hall.

This pan-Protestant conference, for which preparations have been under way since 1907, is different from most other religious gatherings in that it is not composed largely of ecclesiastics. Many of the great preachers of Christendom are present. It is true, but the leading laity of both hemispheres also are here, and in much larger numbers than the clergy. It is safe to say that, not merely because of the size and representative character of the meeting, but also because of the standing of the men engaged, this convention will mark an epoch in Christian history.

ALL MUST HAVE SQUARE DEAL.

President Declares Prosperity of Railroads and Shippers is Mutual.

Washington, June 14.—In talking with delegations of shippers from Chicago and many other cities, representing the entire country, who called to congratulate him upon his course in the recent railroad negotiations and in preventing an increase in freight rates, President Taft again expounded the doctrine of the square deal. He told the shippers that unless the railroads were given a fair profit it would deeply affect the shipping interests. He declared that the prosperity of the shippers and the carriers must be mutual—that neither could move ahead without the other.

The railroads, the president said, were entitled to a reasonable return and it was to secure this to them that the new railroad bill proposes to give the interstate commerce commission the right of inquiry to ascertain what a reasonable rate should be.

Aid From Mother Jones.

New York, June 14.—Leaders of the strike of the journeymen bakers here have received word from "Mother" Jones, famous woman labor agitator, that she is coming here to see what she can do to help the bakers win.

Bank Embezzler is Located.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 14.—James E. Woodbury, under arrest here for passing bad checks, was positively identified as J. E. Marcell, who is alleged to have robbed the State bank of Highland, Kan., of $350,000.

GOV. HASKELL TO USE TROOPS.

Plans Removal of Records to New Capital by Force, is Report.

Oklahoma City, Okla., June 14.—With a state court injunction starting him in the face and an order from the federal court demanding that he show why he should move the capital from Guthrie, Governor Haskell remains firm. It is rumored that the governor contemplates calling out the First regiment of militia to add the state officers in taking possession of their records in Guthrie.

With most of the state officials scattered around the city in various buildings, and with the governor's office located in a room at the Leo Huelken hotel, the business of the state began to be transacted in this city. The first official act of Governor Haskell in the new capital was to sign an order of requisition for the return of a prisoner in Colorado.

HUSBAND SHOTS WIFE'S LOVER.

Moline (Ill.) Man Traces Spouse and Affinity to Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., June 14.—Finding Charles Cugat eating dinner with Mrs. Strobo in the rear room of Blome's saloon, Alido Strobo, the woman's husband, invited him to have a drink and when the invitation was accepted, pulled a revolver from his pocket and shot Cugat three times. Cugat is in St. Mary's hospital in a serious condition. Strobo was locked up. All parties live in Moline, Ill.

Would Abolish Jewish Pale.

St. Petersburg, June 14.—A bill has been introduced in the duma to abolish the Jewish pale. It has the support of 180 members.

$275,000 Fund for College.

Rock Island, Ill., June 14.—President Gustav Androon of Augustana college announced to the Augustana synod the completion of a $275,000 jubilee fund for the college. Illinois conference contributed $140,000 to the fund; Minnesota, $50,000; Iowa, $40,000; New York, $20,000, and other conferences the remainder.

BOUGHT AS SLAYER OF ALMA KELLNER.

Joseph Wendling in uniform of French army.

Louisville, Ky.—The nation-wide search for Joseph Wendling, the missing janitor of St. John's school, Louisville, where the body of Alma Kellner was found, continues with little encouragement.

Gradually the police are uncovering evidence which is disclosing the manner in which Alma Kellner met her death. Facts have been learned which substantiate the statement that the girl was struck down while at prayer.

The Power Question

A lumber manufacturer who now uses Electric power, says: "We wish we had made the change long ago."

How about power for your factory? May you not some day be saying the same thing? Why not let us figure with you now?

Why not let us install one Electric Motor now to drive one of your most isolated machines? It can be done without in any way interrupting your present equipment. It will give you an opportunity to judge for yourself of the merits of Electric Power and our service.

Janesville Electric Co.

Every day there is something doing in real estate on the Want Ad. page. Keep in touch with it daily.

In St. John's church. It is believed that the body was thrown into the basement through a trapdoor in the church floor. In an ash heap under the altar was found a glove and handkerchief identified as having belonged to the murdered girl. There was also discovered a pair of trousers, which it is believed, bear bloodstains.

Rewards already $2,000 have been offered already and tonight the city council will be asked by Mayor Lind to add another thousand. Governor Wilson is expected to increase these sums as soon as a request is made upon him by the county judge here. The board of public safety has instructed the police and detective departments to spare no expense in the pursuit of the murderer.

The police do not believe that Joseph Wendling, the missing French janitor, has returned to France, but think he may be found in some French settlement in this country or Canada. His wife, held under a charge of being an accessory to the murder, has absolutely declared that she knows nothing about the crime.

The truth has been kept from Mrs. Fred E. Kellner, mother of Alma, that the body was mutilated when found. Since Monday she has remained in the seclusion of her room on the border of collapse. She can not under stand why the body was not brought to the house or why there should be any doubt about the identification. Failing to receive a ready answer regarding the later she asked: "Why can't you tell by the scar on her nose?"

About a year ago the little girl cut her nose by a fall on roller skates.

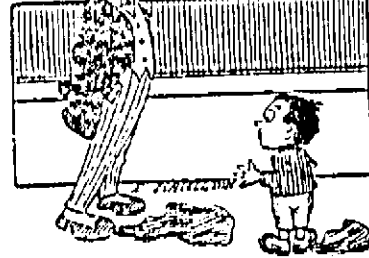

COULD FILL THE BILL.

Girl from Country—"I don't see what kind of a place I could get. There isn't a single thing I know how to do."

Employment Agent—"Very simple.

Just advertise yourself as a maul of all work."

"TELL IT TO THE MARINES."

Little Willie—Say, pa, what are marines?

Pa—Marines, my son, are soldiers on shipboard.

Little Willie—What are they for, pa?

Pa—People use 'em chiefly to tell lies to, my son.

Only enthusiasm can build up a business. Only enthusiasm can advertise it.

Self-Seeking New York.

"I wonder," remarked a Wall street speculator, "if people really do take me for a pair of tongs?" "Why ask it?" "Because a day does not pass in which someone does not attempt to use me to pull his chestnuts out of the fire, New York," he added after a moment's hesitation, "is the most generous place in the world when it comes to disposing of somebody else's money."

THE COURAGE of CAPTAIN PLUM

By JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD

This Remarkable Historical Narrative of Rapid-Fire Action Will Be Published Serially in This Paper Watch for the Opening Installment

Many newspapers claim to have ABOUT blank circulation. The Gazette publishes its circulation figures every day in the year, and makes an affidavit of its monthly average circulation. Claims are one thing. Facts are another. Claims are apt to be lies. Facts are truth.

The Gazette reaches more than 5300 homes daily, more than 50 per cent of which are in the country adjacent, and the balance in Janesville. In Janesville The Gazette reaches more than 3/4ths of all the homes.

The value of an advertisement depends upon the number of people reached.

Most merchants advertise in The Gazette because The Gazette goes to most everybody.

Gretna Green Marriages.

The production of a Gretna Green marriage certificate in court is not absolutely unprecedented, for in the Wakefield case, in 1827, such a certificate was produced and identified by the famous blacksmith himself, and in another case at Carlisle as late as 1890. In the early nineteenth century, a Gretna Green certificate played its part. Some idea of the number of these marriages may be gained from the fact that one of the "priests" is said to have had sometimes made as much as £100 a week, a code of secret signs between himself and the postboys enabling him to ascertain the station of his clients, and to charge accordingly, just as a doctor of today charges you according to your supposed means.—London Chronicle.

The Philosopher of Folly.

"When I give a trump my old silk hat and frock coat," says the Philosopher of Folly, "what right have I to be angry when he comes back and kicks because I didn't give him a garden to put in his button-hole?"

Be Careful.

If you have reached the place in your life where the commonness of word, action or thought does not disturb you. If mediocrity of purpose and accomplishment be all that satisfies you. When you can work in surroundings totally lacking in law or order without trying to remedy the defects. If work poorly done does not trouble you in the sharp haunting way of other days. When you do not expect refinement, sincerity or truth from your friends, for that means a laxity in self-requirements. When deep down in your heart there is no striving for an ideal. If you scorn the contempt or admiration of other broad minded individuals. For these are a few signs of a pitiable deterioration of character, and absolutely mark the failure of an individual to carry on the forward movement of the race.

Use of Copra Oil.

Copra oil used to go into the soap industry exclusively, whereas to-day several of the most important mills in Marcellus are converting this oil into high priced domestic grease, sold commonly as a substitute for butter.

New Story of Whistler.

Appropos of the exhibition of the works of Whistler at the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, a well-known mural painter of this city, stands for a new story of him who was known as "The Only One."

"It was at a gathering of painters," said Mr. Harris, "and the talk turned upon impressionism, or, at least, Whistler turned his talk in that direction and the others listened. There was in the company an artist who was notoriously impetuous, for he was constantly borrowing small change."

"When I look at the sun," said he, "and then turn away I see blue and red spots the size of dollars all over the landscape."

All Have Their Burdens.

Nearly everybody is handicapped in some way. So don't fancy you are unique in having things to put up with and fight against. We are here to fight—and to conquer.—Home Notes.

A Financier's Observation.

"He spends money like a prince," said the man who makes trite comparisons. "Perhaps," replied Mr. Dustin Stax. "Only most members of royal families I have met in my banking experience are more anxious to borrow money than to disburse it."

PLAY BALL—See ad elsewhere.

Value of Ambidexterity.

As a matter of fact, ambidexterity is necessary in several professions and occupations. Surgery and piano playing may be given as examples. Many military authorities are strongly in favor of teaching soldiers to be ambidextrous in the use of the pistol, lance and sword.

For Perfect Health.

In order to support life and growth and to maintain the strength and efficiency of the human body, some things are absolutely necessary. Among these, named perhaps in order of importance, are: Pure air, wholesome nutritious food, unbroken sleep and some form of muscular exercise.

Strength of Beverages.

Wine of medium strength contains 8½ to 10 per cent of alcohol; port wine, 15 per cent; sherry, from 15 to 21 per cent; champagne, 8 to 9 per cent; beer averages from 2 to 6 per cent; whiskey, about 35 per cent; brandy, about 50 per cent.—Automobile Magazine.

THE NATURAL WAY TO GET RELIEF

You Don't Have to Fool Yourself In Taking Strong Drugs—The Chiropractor Tells How to Get Relief in the Right Way.

(Kiro-prak-tor)

It is not to be wondered at that the Chiropractor (Kiro-prak-tor) is continuing to do good among his fellow men in Janesville. Ex-positions of a amazement are on all sides when the simplicity of correcting the errors that exist in the human spine and cause so much suffering, are corrected.

The medical profession tries to cure your suffering by giving you with strong drugs or by cutting away the parts that appear to be diseased. The Chiropractor doesn't add to your suffering by using the methods of the physician. He gets after the cause of your suffering and by natural means corrects the cause and makes you feel like new.

Don't it better to know that your suffering will be stopped rather than to know that you will have to suffer more than your ailment compels you to in an effort to get relief?

Consult the Chiropractor, if you are a sufferer and he will explain to you how easily you can be relieved. Too he will show you plenty of evidence that will convince you that what he says is true.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"IT MAKES me feel badly to think I can't repay you in some way," said the woman who was receiving the favor; "can't you possibly think of something I can do for you?"

"Don't know as I can," responded the brisk little woman who was bestowing the favor, "so suppose you do it for someone else."

I think all favors, all kindnesses, all helps in life ought to be treated that way.

Very, very often one cannot hope to repay one's benefactors. But I don't think that inability releases one from the moral obligation to keep the credit and debit sides of one's kindness account with a balance on the right side by "passing it on."

If you do this, I firmly believe that in the great clearing house of kindness the original benefactor will somehow receive his own again.

That wouldn't be any more wonderful than your receiving the money in New York on a check from a bank in San Francisco and the New York bank being safely reimbursed, would it? And, just think, man is managing that business, and that the other.

I know a man whose brother many years ago advanced the money to send him to college. He planned to pay it back, but before he finished his course, his brother died. Instead of bestowing himself that he could never pay that kindness back, he "passed it on." That is, as soon as he got on his feet financially, he gave the same sum of money his own education had cost, to another ambitious young man who lacked the funds for the education he craved. And when that boy would have repaid the money, he was told to keep it until he found another ambitious young man who stood in need of it.

And now the fund of that big brother has sent five men to college.

I can never repay the newspaper man who gave me my first foothold in the newspaper profession; who explained and advised and smoothed away difficulties that might have proven absolutely insurmountable without his surprising kindness.

He is far above any ability of mine to help him. But I can help some other beginner, and I consider it as just as much my obligation to help any of the inexperienced folk who come into my path as it would be to help him if he needed it.

I think it would be a splendid condition of affairs if every time any of us received a kindness of any sort we felt money until we had "passed it on."

What you gave might not always be of the same kind or size as what you received, of course, but just what you had to give.

If your richer neighbor, for instance, takes you out motoring, why not let that be a reminder for you to send your poorer neighbor some fruit?

Or, if your rich cousin invites you on a yachting trip, why not let that become an obligation to you to invite your poorer cousin to enjoy what is as much a luxury to her as the yachting trip is to you—a week at your summer cottage?

If a kindness to you is shown,
"Pass it on."
Let it dry another's tears,
Let it travel down the years
Till in Heaven it appears,
Pass it on.

MAUD ALLAN OFFERS SINGING TRAINING OF EUROPEAN MASTERS.

Nadine Parker, soprano who has been taken under protection of dancer. Since that time several interviews have been arranged with Nadine Parker, her ambitions learned, her past life investigated and her character studied. In every way the girl has stood the test, an able life of study and achievement in Europe seems assured to her.

The little hazel-eyed singer in the roadhouse, Miss Allan learned, has supported her mother for years by singing in various cafes of the better class. Though only 19, she has been married and divorced.

Two years ago, when she was 17, she met 18-year-old William M. Parker, son of a wealthy Chicago business man, in Los Angeles. Miss Allan, for that was her maiden name, entertained by her singing at a party and there the two youngsters met. They eloped to this city, were married in San Rafael, despite protesting telegrams from both mothers in Los Angeles. But the love dream faded when Parker refused to support his wife, and she secured a divorce.

"Though Nadine Parker is under a 'six months' contract with us," Andrew C. Dibble said last night, "it will let her go if she can better herself so much. We would hate to lose her, but I could not keep friendly with any self-respect and at the same time refuse to allow an artist the opportunity for development that this girl may have."

Requirements of Tragedy. The clearest and most succinct declaration of the dramatic unities was made by Boileau, when he laid down the law that a tragedy must show "one action in one day and in one place." It must deal with only a single story; and this obligation is the unity of action. It must never change the scene, massing all its episodes in a single spot; and this is the unity of place. And it must compact its successive situations into the space of 24 hours, into a single day, and this is the unity of time.—Atlantic.

Live by Catching Fireflies.

In Japan there are people who obtain a livelihood by catching fireflies. These flies are used as ornaments at social festivities. Sometimes the insects are kept caged, sometimes released in swarms in the presence of the guests. The firefly hunter starts forth at sunset with a long bamboo pole and a bag of mosquito netting. On reaching a suitable growth of willows he makes ready his net and strikes the branches with his pole. This jars the fireflies to the ground where they are easily gathered up.

THE MEANING OF A WORD.

By MARY RUSSELL.

The very word Christian loses its meaning and becomes not an ideal of man or God, but a thought of people and things, because of memory's subtle influence, Christian—the world has the perfume of the valley that grandmothers told of between the leaves of her Bible on Sunday.

A sweet and her delicate perfume too fine and holy for daily use. It has the austere atmosphere of a day when the minister came to Sabbath dinner, and talked in language that filled a child's soul with awe, but not with love.

Christian—the word is followed by memories of good men and women who seemed too high and holy for mortal but reverence. They had lived beyond the little hopes and fears of daily life. They had become "a thing apart," and looked with awestruck longing eyes "behind the veil."

At the world, memories of long, hot summer days when words fraught with meaning, too deep for childish minds, fell on deaf ears and childish souls longed to be away into the cool, green woods, where birds and flowers proclaimed the goodness of God in language more intelligible to childish ears.

Even to older minds the word conjures up a picture of Sunday—and church—and holy things—set in a certain frame.

Is it then true that Christianity and life as we live it are not one with each other?

May a man be a Christian only in the rare atmosphere created by the church?

What is Christianity? Is it merely an emotion? Or is it an atmosphere—all pervading—all enveloping? An atmosphere of life-giving qualities with power to revivify this sad old world and make glad the souls that dwell upon it?

Surely to be Christ-like means to live every day as Christ would have lived.

To live in brotherhood in business life, as well as in religious life; to live in charity of thought and feeling; to live honestly with a just sense of our obligations—is not this true Christianity?

It is not only that a man must not lie, nor steal, nor deal with his neighbor unjustly. It is more than that. He must live in an atmosphere of Christ-like thought and feeling or he betrays his Master.

It is not a matter of words. One need not preach, if one's daily life is an act of devotion to the highest ideals.

If in our daily lives we apply the text "God is love," and do unto others as we would that they should do unto us, the world will grow brighter and better because we have lived.

Surely Christianity is not for the few alone. It is not alone for one day in the week.

It sometimes think that our custom of having devotional services on but the one day in the seven is detrimental to Christian living. We grow accustomed to the thought of awaiting that day and of saving ourselves for it. Each day has its appointed duties and one day we worship God.

Do you think that God meant that when He blessed the seventh day and sanctified it and rested?

Surely it was meant that on one day we should bring the harvest of deeds done in His name and pour them at His feet.

The citizen has need of Christian living and Christian teaching, or he will be without honor or value in home or business life.

Let us not forget that in this divine alchemy of the "great melting pot" where citizens are made of crude material, there must be the element of Christ-like love and belief, or our experiment results in failure.

Christian teaching is not for that man alone who has already learned the lesson. It is for the citizen in the making—the child, the ignorant, the untaught—that need our best efforts.

Are our churches meeting this need? Do our creeds embrace the creedless? When we are laboring to make good citizens do we not forget that "whatsoever makes men good Christians makes them good citizens?" Then open wide the portals to God's house, make the way so plain—so sweet—so alluring that no man is so lost that he may not find a path through the gates—no mind so childish it may not grasp the truth—no heart so hard that divine love will not soften it.

"A Christian citizen" is not a word—it is a creed! Let us dream it—think it—each it—and last, but greatest of all, let us live it!

Sign of Pittsburgh.

A crazy man called on the mayor of Pittsburgh and asked him to finance a railroad to heaven. With the exception of Pittsburgh, Philadelphia would probably be the most available location for the other terminus of such a line.

Christian Fortitude. As the vacant air we breathe is full of germs of this world's life, so what seems the empty things of common life are full of potencies for life eternal. Our passing splendor and sorrows may be soiled enough; but the thankfulness and patience which overcome them belong to a world which passeth not away.—Henry M. Gwatkin.

Cutting Conduct.

"I met a swordfish three waves beyond here," remarked the whale, "and I feel all cut up at the way he treated me."

Janesville Daily Gazette, June 14, 1870.—Quite a number of people from this city went to Beloit this afternoon to attend a gift-ed wedding which takes place in that city this evening.

Rev. Mr. Kirkwood of the Presbyterian church, is to be ordained on Tuesday evening of next week.

The Concordia society left for Freeport this afternoon to attend a Saengerfest in that city.

It is curious that the men are put to in this city just now for amusement. A couple of elderly gents yesterday afternoon played golf by calling each other names for a while, in front of the old Solid Comfort Saloon, and then began to punch each other in the ribs, and finally they got right down to business and rolled over in the ditch together. To any their personal appearance was improved by the performance, would be to state it strong. Spectators couldn't see it.

The thermometer indicates a temperature of 75 in the shade this afternoon.

The Presbyterian church festival will be held at the rink this evening. A floral temple and an art gallery are among the attractions. The society has been very fortunate in securing burlesque for the festival. They have procured some of the finest that have been brought to this market and they have been in great abundance.

A FOUR-LEGGED GOBLIN IS THE CHAMPION FREAK

Three-Legged Chickens Take Back Seat On Advent of Bird Belonging to Mrs. Campbell of East La Prairie.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

East La Prairie, June 13.—Beloit's three-legged chicken, which uses the extra member as a prop rather than a means of locomotion, will have to yield the title of being the freakiest freak in Rock county. In a setting of goose eggs, which Mrs. Charles Campbell of this place set some time ago, one of them hatched out a four-legged gosling.

A party of friends and neighbors were most enjoyably entertained at a five o'clock luncheon last Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Myrtle Lono. Her cousin, Mrs. Jessie Landers of Three Coffee Reasons.

Coffee dangers, Coffee economy, and Coffee satisfaction are three very important subjects. And all three of these subjects are completely solved in the new creation known to grocers everywhere as Dr. Shoop's "Health Coffee".

Health Coffee actually costs three times as far as common coffee—costs from a 25 cent, 50 cent package. And remember, there is not a grain of real coffee in it. Being made from pure toasted cereals, malt, milk, etc., it gives a wholesome, healthy, food-like drink, that will actually strengthen, invigorate, and give you either child or adult. And its taste is so deliciously delicious, that it is not only a healthful beverage, but it is a pleasure. It is not only a healthful beverage, but it is a pleasure. It is not only a healthful beverage, but it is a pleasure.

Antics of Fireballs.

Fireballs or globular lightnings are the most mysterious of all nature and for long it was doubted by science if there was any such thing. But their reality is now beyond question. Ball or meteoric lightning is sometimes seen jumping from cloud to cloud, sometimes rolling, bounding and skipping upon the ground. In October, 1885, in Constantinople, a globe of fire the size of an orange came spinning, bounding through an open window and began playing around the gas jet. Then jumping up and down on the dinner table, it danced about the heads of the guests like Puck on the stage. Finally, it flew into the street and exploded with an appalling crash.

The American Immigration Company offers the fee to all the lands they offer to sell.

The prices run from $25.00 to $200 per acre, depending on the value of the standing timber, location, etc.

The land is sold on ten year's time. The soil is rich and yields abundant crops. On much of this land there is enough hardwood timber to pay for the farm. It is a country of abundant rainfall and the purest of water.

It is unquestionably the greatest cheap land opportunity of the century. Wisconsin land values are advancing by leaps and bounds.

THE ROUND LAKE WISCONSIN FARM LANDS are going fast and the man who gets in at the ground floor price can make himself independent in five years. The time to act is NOW.

Stevenson's Morning Prayer.

The day returns and brings us the petty round of irritating concerns and duties. Help us to play the game and perform them with laughter and kind faces. Let cheerfulness abound with industry. Give us to go blithely on our business all this day, bring us to our resting beds weary and content and undisturbed, and grant us in the end the gift of sleep.

RELIEF FOR AGED HORSES

Effective Efforts Put Forth to Secure Humane Treatment for Friend of Man.

One of the pleasant signs of the times is the growing disposition manifested in many quarters and through many agencies to remember the ancient proverb, that "a merciful man will be merciful to his beast."

In its efforts to bring about the humane disposal of old or worn-out horses the Boston work horse parade association is meeting with encouraging success, the Globe of that city says, and it believes that disabled or superannated horses, especially such as are owned by large concerns and by city governments, ought not to be sold.

Many of the larger corporations never sell an old or worn-out horse; others see that they fall into good hands when they dispose of them, and still others graduate their horses to lighter work as equine old age comes on.

There is an old-age pension scheme for horses in this country. In several European countries the problem is solved by eating the horse—a more compassionate method of treating him than keeping him at work until he drops in his tracks. "I think an animal can't be merciful," said the Moor of Venice.

Little "Willie" Was Busy

When Mamma Found Her Darling He Was "Passing Cards" for Bootblack.

A glistering ear with a liveried footman on the curb stood at the Fifth avenue door of a fashionable jeweler, the New York Morning Telegraph says. Suddenly a richly dressed woman, wildly excited, rushed out, followed by several young men from behind the counters.

"Where is my Willie?" she cried, "I was looking at some jewels and he slipped away. Have you seen Willie?" The footman shook his head stolidly in the negative.

Just then an elderly man who was reading a card and grinning, came into Fifth avenue from around the corner. He interrupted the excited mother.

"I beg your pardon, madam," he said, "He must have left by the side door while you were absorbed in the jewels. I really thought it strange that a child from some home of wealth should be passing cards for a bootblack. That is what he was doing. He was probably pressed into service by the quick-witted bill passer."

She rushed through the crowd and found the child busy, as the stranger had said.

"Nasty cards!" exclaimed the mother, seizing them indignantly.

"Willie was dragged to the car howling."

"Where did you get them?" she demanded.

"Man gave 'em to me," he howled. "Man told me to give 'em to my friends. I want my cards."

Struggling with his mother, he was whisked away in the car.

What Keeps the World Alive.

There's the world at large; town, village, country, sea. What is it all about? A man's search for his God, his struggle to fill his stomach; and his desire for his mate. It is only love that keeps the whole pathetic mass together. Fine, slender cords, binding men and women. The light in the woman's eyes, the smiles of children, the actions men do from affection—these things keep the world alive. Nothing matters but that. The worst man loves somebody. The best man loves somebody.—New York Press.
